What is Obesity@usyd?

Obesity@usyd is an opportunity for all researchers of obesity-related areas to come together and find out what else is going on at the University of Sydney in their area.

From this forum, we aim to:

- identify areas for collaboration
- identify areas where further research is needed
- produce a report that will act as a reference and provide contacts for future interactions

Who should attend?

This forum will be useful to researchers in any aspect of obesity including:

- Health
- Design
- Town Planning
- Education
- Basic Science
- Anthropology
- History
- Law
- Sustainability
- Engineering
- …and many other areas.

Format

The day will comprise a series of short presentations (5 mins plus questions) grouped into themes and allowing time for discussion.

A program for the day (including start and finish times) will be developed and circulated after the closing date for expressions of interest.

Further information

For more information, phone Kathryn on 02 9036 3102 or email k.murray@usyd.edu.au

This event is hosted by the Institute of Obesity, Nutrition & Exercise